Welcome to the Miami-Dade County Public School’s Summer Fun packets. These fun activities are designed to help promote learning throughout the summer break. The activities are divided by grade levels and curriculum content – Social Studies, Science, Mathematics, and Reading/Language Arts. Educational web-links are also included with all packets. Please be sure to supervise your child while they are using the internet.

In addition to the fun packets, it is strongly recommended that you encourage your child to continue to read at least 30 minutes each day. Support for reading includes: Barnes & Noble’s Summer Reading Journal http://bn.com/summerreading and Miami-Dade Public Library’s Wild About Reading Summer Reading Adventure http://www.mdpls.org. In addition, Ticket to Read is available through the Student Portal: http://www.dadeschools.net/students/students.htm.

In an attempt to conserve paper and ink, if you wish to print these activities, they are combined using a little space as possible and no color except for the links on this page and this note. If you wish to avoid printing in color, please select “Print in grayscale” on your printer’s properties/color tab located on the “Print” screen. See the figures below.

Title of the Activity: Flag Etiquette

Brief description of the activity: Teach your son/daughter proper flag etiquette. Teach them how the flag is to be flown and when the flag should be flown. Go over the meaning of the summer holidays - Memorial Day (last Monday in May), Flag Day (June 14), Independence Day (July 4), and Labor Day (first Monday in September). Finally, have your son/daughter create a poster that informs the public about the rules of proper flag etiquette.

Subject: Multicultural Awareness

Title of the activity: Asian Culture

In this multicultural activity, your child will utilize current events and resources to gain an appreciation and understanding of various Asian cultures. Asian newspapers can often be purchased at Asian grocery stores or utilize the Internet to learn more about various Asian cultures. Locate Asia on a map. Discuss current events in Asia with your child. Now look for newspaper and magazine articles concerning politics, culture, and religious activities happening in Asian communities or countries. Watch the local and national news, read newspapers, magazines, and encyclopedias, watch a video about an Asian country. Ask your child if the neighborhoods, communities, and homes are similar or different to our American cities? Have your child write differences and similarities that they have discovered in their research.

Title of the activity:

Local, national, and world events reported in the newspapers or on television often illustrate positive actions by community members to assist others in times of need. Discuss how tragic events often bring out the best in others. For example, after natural disasters there is often an outpouring of concern and other demonstrations of compassion by community members. Have students look through newspapers and magazines for evidence of “good citizenship”; e.g., blood donors, charitable donations. Post and discuss these stories as a family.

Title of the Activity: Helping our Community

Brief description of the activity: Being a good citizen means taking responsibility to help others less fortunate in our community and helping keep our community safe. It is important to know what is happening in your community so that you may be able to take action and get involved. Have your child(ren) watch the local news and read the local newspaper for a week. Have them write down the top 5 community problems or issues they found in the newspaper and local news for that time period. They are to choose the one issue/problem that they feel is the most important one in their community. They are to research the problem using the Internet, library, etc. to determine possible solutions to the problem. Using their research, they are to write a letter to the mayor (either county or municipal, depending on where they live) explaining the problem and the possible solutions to that problem. The county or city government information can be accessed by going to the county website at www.miamidade.gov.

Title of the Activity: My First Checkbook

Brief description of the activity: Pretend that $300.00 that has been deposited into your first checking account. You decide to go on a shopping trip to a music/video store where you will purchase at least four items – none of which is to cost more than $50.00. Make a list of the items you have bought and write the price you paid for each one. Have a parent or another adult work with you to “BALANCE” your imaginary checkbook, using the cost of six imaginary items that you have bought and the $300.00 starting balance in your checkbook.

Title of the Activity: It Takes the World to Make a Chocolate Bar

Brief description of the activity: Look at the ingredients found in a chocolate bar or another type of candy. Research, via the Internet, where the ingredients found in the candy are found throughout the world. Download from the Internet or draw your own outline map of the world and label all the different countries that have been used to produce your candy bar or other piece of candy. Write a paragraph, explaining how “it takes the world to make a candy bar.” Hint: Don’t forget about the countries that produce products for the materials used to create the candy wrapper, as well.

Subject: Multicultural Awareness

Title of the activity - Cultures of Our Nation

In this multicultural activity, your child will learn to appreciate ethnic diversity in society. Emphasize your culture, talk about your roots, and let your child know that he/she should always be proud of his/her culture. Ask your child to describe themselves in a positive light. Brainstorm the different cultures that may be prevalent in your neighborhood or community. Encourage your child to learn more about these cultures. Utilize the newspaper to highlight countries from around the world and share stories relating to their cultures. Discuss the different foods and dances that are seen within your community by various cultures. "Two Step", "Hip Hop", "Square Dancing," and "Salsa," just to mention a few. As a field experience:

1. Visit a local historical society or museum to learn more about the contributions of members of diverse culture/ethnic groups in the community to the economic, political, and/or social development of your community.
2. Visit local neighborhoods to learn about the history of each neighborhood, sample ethnic foods, to observe the day-to-day routines of neighborhood residents, listen to ethnic music, and to native languages being spoken.
3. Attend cultural/ethnic festivals and performances.

Subject: Character Education

Title of the activity: Character Education and Television

Ask students to list their favorite TV programs or to review comic strips in newspapers. Discuss the attributes and traits of the characters in the television program or cartoon. Ask students to look for evidence of honest or dishonest behavior by observing the words, deeds or actions of the characters. List the negative and positive traits of the characters. Note that people who do not speak the whole truth or omit pertinent information are dishonest as well. Discuss how popular television shows or favorite comic strips develop plot using unfavorable characteristics in their scenarios.
